

CJ

I got an email from her first, a friend of a friend of a friend. She asked if I would like to photograph her nude or nude and painted white or maybe in the shower or maybe all of these things. I said of course and a few weeks later without even having met each other, she was here and she let me photograph her. I didn't tell her what to wear in the beginning and what to do after that really. I just let it get quiet and awkward, giving a little direction every so often reacting to her standing before me and trying to make the situation playful. I told her I didn't really know what I would do with these or why I wanted to make them to which she simply replied, "Just look at them." Then she smiled.

30 of 1045 photographs | All October 5, 2008

www.iliketotellstories.com

jonathan@iliketotellstories.com